Histories of Success
Part 2

Review

The Omega of both Ancient and Modern Israel can be compared and contrasted. They are histories of success. This means that the Omega of Ancient Israel most closely resembles the Omega of Modern Israel.

Omega Ancient	Omega Modern
End	End
Success	Success

The Omega of Ancient Israel is a history that began in 4BC, and ended in 100AD. Within this history, there are 3 Fractals — The Disciples, The Jews, and The Gentiles.

The Omega of Modern Israel is a History that began in 1989, and ends at The 2nd Advent. Within this history, there are 3 Fractals — The Priests, The Levites, and The Nethinims.

What makes a History of Success?

When the work of gathering a people begins, human beings are raised up by God to do this work. These human beings are messengers. They teach people about what God needs them to learn.

When this work begins, God raises up a 1st messenger. This messenger is used by God to do this work. However the 1st messenger has misconception, and because of this, they make mistakes. A 2nd messenger is then raised up, and one of their functions, is to correct the mistake of the 1st messenger. If the work of correcting the mistakes of the 1st messenger is done, then a history is successful.

Questions

1. Define the words "History" and "Success", and use those definitions to understand what a history of success is.
2. What makes a history successful?
3. Use the information about a history of success to teach you about a history of failure. Name the rule used to do this.
4. Give 2 characteristics of a history of success.

Activity

Make a list of things to do and their requirements. State whether you were successful or not in completing the tasks and their requirements.